HNW Australian Equity Income Portfolio

Monthly Report May 2024

- In May, the two main themes were excitement around artificial intelligence (AI) and tech stocks, along with inflation remaining sticky across many developed economies. The investor excitement around AI looks very similar to the enthusiasm around the "dot com" boom seen in 1999/2000, with many unlikely companies making tenuous claims that their business will benefit from AI.
- The HNW Australian Equity Income Portfolio gained by 0.6% behind the benchmark return of 0.8%, primarily driven by macroeconomic concerns rather than stock-specific news. Atlas is looking forward to the August reporting season, which will allow management teams to demonstrate how they continue to benefit from a higher inflationary and interest rate environment.
- May was an active month for the Portfolio, with four companies reporting profit results for the six months ending March 2024. We were pleased with the May earnings season, with all companies in the Portfolio reporting solid results. Atlas views rising dividends as an earnings quality signal indicating that a company's business is in a solid position with no significant near-term issues such as major debt refinances or deteriorating profits.

Performance Update

May was a very volatile month, with the first week dominated by the banks' reporting season, which was overall positive with low bad debts, higher dividends and large share buybacks.

Throughout the month, the index was very volatile, with the largest stock on the ASX, attempting to make what would have been a terrible $75 billion acquisition of Anglo American. We were happy to sit on the sidelines and avoid having an interest in mega multinational mining mergers, but this stance hurt us when the Anglo merger was called off.

HNW Australian Equity Income Portfolio

May 2024

Portfolio Performance

In May, the HNW Australian Equity Income Portfolio gained by 0.6%, behind the benchmark's return of 0.8%.

Over the month, positions in Amcor (+9%), Incitec Pivot (+6%), Medibank Private (+4%) and Commonwealth Bank (+4%) added value.

It was pleasing to see Amcor have a good month. Its very good third-quarter results beat market expectations, reflecting a slowing in destocking across the US and increasing volumes across the Amcor product offerings. Pleasingly, Amcor upgraded its earnings guidance for FY24 following a stronger outlook for its volumes in the last quarter.

On the negative side of the ledger, Deterra (-6%), Ampol (-6%) and JB HFi (-5%) detracted from value.

Strong Income

May was a good month for income in the Portfolio, with four companies paying dividends: Amcor, Macquarie Bank, ANZ, and Westpac. Pleasingly, all the companies paid higher dividends than last year, minus Macquarie, which did not sell any one-off green assets this year. As always, Atlas looks closely at whether a company is increasing dividends as an earnings quality signal and an indication of board confidence in the health of a company's finances and outlook. A far more powerful signal than mere words offered by management during a results call.

Portfolio Trading

No significant trading was done during the month.

Performance Calculation Methodology

The following conventions have been adopted for calculating performance:

- Transaction expenses of 10bp are applied to Portfolio buy and sells. Transaction expenses are capitalised into the cost base. Rebalancing transactions incur transaction expenses.
- Cash-flow from dividends is credited on the ex-date rather than the pay date. Franking is not considered which is consistent with the calculation methodology of the benchmark. Cash-flow from dividends is assumed to be reinvested in issuer stock at the closing price on the ex-date.
- The Portfolio can participate in entitlement-based capital raisings, however, cannot participate in institutional raisings. The Portfolio must fund the required amount by the sale of the equivalent amount of equity. In the event of a subsequent scale-back the Portfolio will also record the pro-rata amount of script issued.
- Performance does not include consideration of taxation including capital gains tax.
